AN APPALLING ACCIDENT.

Ail But One of a Crew of Trainmen Hurled Into Eternity—The Victims Lived at Saxton.

An appalling accident occurred near Mt. Dallas early Friday morning. The boiler of freight engine No. 16 exploded, hurling into eternity four men, namely:

ANDREW SNYDER BERKSTRESSER, en

G. STANTON EDWARDS, fireman, CHARLES A. HOLLINGSHEAD, conduc

R. CLINTON RITCHEY, brakeman. All of these men lived at Saxton. Engineer Berkstresser and Brakeman Ritchey were married, the others

Flagman William Garner was the only member of the crew who escaped uninjured. He was at the rear of the train when the explosion took place. Engine No. 16 was hauling the second section of a lot of empty coal cars and was standing a short distance below the station at Mt. Dallas, just behind the first section, when, without warning, the boiler burst with deadly effect. Fireman Edwards, it is believed, was cating his breakfast in the cab and his companions were on the ground nearby. Mr. Berkstresser was oiling the engine. The body of the fireman was hurled across the Raystown Branch of the Juniata, a distance of 300 yards. His head was almost severed from his body, both legs we'e broken and his body was so badly mutilated as to be almost unrecogniza bie. The other men were thrown from 150 to 200 yards from the engine. Their podies were frightfully mangled. The right arm of Conductor Hollingshead was torn off and was not found until the next day. The top of Engineer Berkstresser's head was blown off. A hat belonging to one of the men was discovered in a tall pine tree. a shoe on a bush and tattered portions of clothing were scattered here and there. Edwards' watch, still ticking, was picked up 300 yards beyond the place where he feil. The engineer's time-piece, which remained in his pocket, stopped at 6:35, the time the boiler exploded. The cab and a portion of the boiler were shattered. The and water gauges was not broken. Coroner Merrick A. Stoner, of Bedford, was notified and hastened to the scene of the accident. He selected a jury and some time after the bodies of the dead trainmen were viewed by the coroner and jurors they met in Justice of the Peace George W. Richey's office at Everett and examined a number of witnesses, most of whom were machinists in the employ of the railroad company. No deficite information which would throw any light upon the cause of the explosion was obtained and Coroner Stoner continned the hearing until half past one o'clock Thursday afternoon, May 16, at Everett. The jury was composed of the following persons: George R Ling, of Bedford; Frank Shearer, of Snake Spring township; Samuel Grove, W. H. Whisel and L. C. Mann, of Evertinue the inquest because so many rumors were rife to the effect that the bell, whistle and smoke stack were not damaged. An iron rod from the engine was wrapped around the trunk of a tree, while the glass on the steam boiler of "Old 16" was unsound. The bodies of the dead employees removed to their homes a heart-rending scene ensued. Their untimely death and friends. They were buried on tending the funeral services.

A multitude of people visited the scene of the catastrophe Friday morning. It was one of the most distress ing accidents that have ever occurred on the Huntingdon and Broad Top. John Jones, flagman of the first sec tion, was sitting on a brake at the rear end of his train and was about to speak to the crew of the second section when there was a loud crash and, in the twinkling of an eye, the lives o his fellow-employees were snuffed out The force of the explosion sent a cloud of dust against the face of the horrified eye-witness of the sad death of the Shaefter, Ph. D., Chambersburg, followed with an elaborate and interesting sketch of the life-work of the departed. The liturgical services were conducted by Rev. W. C. Cremer, Chambersburg; Rev. Dr. F. F. Bahner, Waynesboro, and Rev. I. N. Peightel, Greencastle. Dr. Kieffer spoke Irom the text found in Revelations, "Beye faithful unto death, and I will give unto you a crown of life." He paid a high tribute to the worth of the departed ambessador of Christ, whose zeak for the church, her missions and institutions has never once flagged in a long and useful career. The hymns "Forever with the Lord" and "Lead, Kindly Light," were rendered, and the services throughout were solemn and impressive Interment was made at the cemetery, where Dr. Aughlinbaugh and others officiated.

An exchange says:
There is a borough in Clearlield county known as Troutville that is said to be a veritable paradise, at least so far as paying taxes is concerned. Troutville has been a borough for seven years, and for six years of that period not a mill of borough taxes has been levied. The first year a small assessment was levied and to-day the borough over but $20. The DuBos Courter says this state of affairs is due mainly to economy in keeping up public improvements and the rest of it is due to the Brooks liquor license law. The revenues for license have met all borough expenses, lacking $20, for six years, and there is a chance that they will for six more years, unless as set of men get into the borough offices who care less for expenses than those who are serving now. Four years of war, four years of of daring, four years of devotion to me country and one flag, four years of surging armies from the banks of the Susquehanna to the gulf-washed shores of the south, two great American armies fought, inch by inch, fool by foot, the one for perpetuity of the American Union, the other for its destruction! During these four years the grand old emblem of our national unity was kept to the breeze by the willing hands and strong hearts of the flower of our loyal young mangood and of our patriotic youth.

Strewn on the ocean's bottom, down deep in the gulfs and bays, in the swamps and in the fields, under the asgnolias and beneath the drooping willows below the waving grain and wild flowers, in the plain village churchyard and in the monument-marked emeteries of the cities, from the rockbound coast of Maine to the shallow waters of the bayous of Louisians. from the beaches and bluffs of the majestic Atlantic to and beyond the rrest mountains, where the imperial acific leaves the western shores of our country—under the sod and beneath the sea-there are sleeping hundreds of thousands of these comrades of ours down in the western sky the bulls who with us shared their pleasures and helped us endure our privations.

To these comrades, with whom we touched albows in days of war, we pay our loving tribute; with sweet flowers with sacred song and with streaming lags, we will visit the silent cities of the dead and give praise to God that He has given such men, as were these comrades of ours, for that great strug-

Nearsightedness

"A person who enjoys good eye sight," said a man who most decidedly does not, "would be greatly astonished to know how little is seen by those who are nearsighted even in a moderate degree. The average shortsighted man, of whom there are hundreds in every large city, sees nothing distinctly more than a foot away from his nose. Beyoud that distance the outline of objects becomes bazy and indistinct growing rapidly more and more so ur til everything is finally merged into one general blur. The faces of people across the street are mere pink blotch their figures are destitute of detail, signs are indecipherable 30 away, and the whole movement of traf-fic and passing show of the thoroughfare is a misty panerama, in which nothing much smaller than a cab can to definitely distinguished.

"Of course a nearsighted person can see as well as anybody through properly fitted glasses, but a great many folks regard them as such a disfigure ment that they prefer to do withou their aid. That kind of pride is certainly very foolish because it causes one to miss at least nine-tenths of what is going on, to say nothing of being an open invitation to accident Yet, oddly enough, I know of a case in which it actually saved a man's life and laid the foundation of a fortune.

These good looks of his were his weak point, and although he was extremely nearsighted he was vain enough to deny himself glasses and kept the fact of his infirmity a secret. The consequence this folly was a wide reputation for haughtiness, as he rarely recognized anybody on the street, and it undoubt edly damaged him in his practice. any rate, he had never made anything more than a very modest living when the curious incident I have in mind oc curred.

Americans are Eastly-Swindled on There will doubtless never come a time in the history of the art world when the discovery of "old masters" will cease, certainly not as long as American picture buyers possess the almighty dollar and are willing to be swindled.

Nearly every week in New York for the last year there have been auction sales of "rare old masters." Some of them are rare, indeed; one that was shown at the Macbeth gallery and also In Detroit some time ago, supposed t he a study of an old man by Rubens the left hand of which was nearly twice the size of its mate, and the term "rare" did certainly apply very apti to the flesh tints.

for a certain painting that an enterprising dealer had "discovered" and who represented it to him as very rare and the only one in existence. The same gentleman while on a recent tour through Spain was shown the original painting upon the walls of a certain monastery. The sequel of the story does not say what he did with the dealer. If there he a hereafter for these discoverers of "old masters," their consciences, which seem very clastic, will have to do a deal of rubbering to get back to the required shape to fit them for their celestial abiding places or to meet the frowns of the shades of departed masters themselves .- Detroit News Tribune.

The Pata Morgana, The fata morgana is a singular aerial phenomenon akin to the mirage. It is seen in many parts of the world, but most frequently and in greatest pertwoen Sicily and Italy. So many conditions must coincide, however, that even there it is of comparatively rare the sun must be at an angle of 45 degrees with the water, both sky and sea must be calm, and the tidal current sufficiently strong to cause the water fr the center to rise higher than on the edges of the strait. When these condi tions are fully met, the observer on the beights of Calabria, looking toward Messina, will behold a series of ranidly changing pictures, sometimes of mos exquisite beauty.

Castles, colonuades, successions of beautiful arches, palaces, cities, with houses and streets and church domes mountains, forests, grottoes, will appear and vanish, to be succeeded per haps by fleets of ships, sometimes placidly sailing over the deep, some times inverted, while a halo like a rainbow surrounds every image. It is supposed that the images are due to the irregular refractive powers of the different layers of air above the sea, which magnify, repeat and distort the objects on the Sicilian shore beyond, but to the Italians these singular appearances are the castles of the Princess Morgana, and the view of them is supposed to bring good fortune to the beholder.

Skeleton In the Closet, The original of the singular saying, "A skeleton in the closet," which is found in almost every language in Europe, is found in one of those curious collections of stories which the monks of the middle ages were fond of making both for their own amusement and for the instruction of youth. In one of these collections, compiled by an ur known hand about the middle of the tenth century, there is a story of wealthy lady who, having a secret grief, confided it to a friend who was apparently a perfectly happy woman. She was the wife of a nobleman who lived to his castle in the south of outwardly on the most loving terms. Not a care cloud seemed to cast a shadow on her path. After hearing the story of her afflicted friend the noble lady took her by the hand and led her to a secret chamber adjoining her bedroom, there opened the door of a closet and exposed a skeleton. "Know, my friend," said, "no one is happy. A Preacher's Novel Plan.

Rev. William Emerson Karns, form erly of Loysburg, adopted a nove plan to fill the Epworth Methodist Episcopal church at Jersey Shore, o which he is pastor. Some time ago Rev. Karns announced that he would give money to all who attended the services last Sunday. Here we will let the Philadelphia Press of Monday. which published a picture of Rev Warns, take up the story :--

Karns, take up the story:

Not a particle of light was shed on the pastor's plan until he read from Matthew the parable of the man who, traveling in a far country, delivered to his servants his goods, giving to one a single talent and to another five and to a third ten. Following the sermon, which had no bearing whatever upon the pastor's purpose, the Rev. Mr. Karns explained under what conditions the money would be given away. He said while engaged in prayer seeking to rid the church from its present debt he decided to follow the example of the man in the parable. Every person in church was then handed an envelope containing one cent. On these envelopes were printed, "This is your talent. Don't wrap it up in a napkin, but use it. Your love for the success of the cause will be determined by your eforts. Harness up this talent and make it. the cause will be determined by your erforts. Harness up this telent and make it pull in others." Hev. Mr. Karns explained that he expected each penny to be so invested that it would bring a return of either $3, $5 or $10 by next September. So far as securing a crowd Rev. Mr. Karns' plan invested Who a pharm

Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil the law of Christ.—Gal. vi, 2. In concluding his discourse, Dr. Gerhart said: "The remedy for the evil must be sought in the conditions that tend to produce the tramp, and in the nature of the tramp himself. He must cease to find it so easy to beat his way over the railroad. He must cease to find people everywhere who will feed and clothe him. He dreads work, and he dreads confinement in jail when he is not made comfortable. The dread of work gives as the cue to the proper manner in dealing with the tramp And it gives us at the same time the test by which to distinguish the worthy from the unworthy-the one seeks work, the other avoids it."

The Philadelphia Inquirer of Monday published a picture of Dr. Gerhart and a synopsis of his sermon. He was formerly pastor of the Reformed church at this place.

County Commissioners Are Exempt.

The supreme court on Monday in an opinion held that county commission. ers do not come under the provision of the act of 1860, which prevents any councilman, burgess, trustee, manager. director, of any corporation, municipality or public institution, from becoming the surety of any one in a higher position in the municipality, corporation, etc. The case which called forth the opinion was the appeal of William Krichbaum from the judgment of the common pleas of Columbia county. Krichbaum had gone on the bond of the county treasurer. The dis trict attorney of the county then brought proceedings to have the position of county commissioner declared vacant, claiming that county commissioners come under the act of 1860. The Columbia county court decided against Krichbaum and an appeal was taken to the supreme court. The supreme court reversed the lower court and entered judgment for the county

Spring Novelties in Printed Foulard Silks.

To-day, for the first time, the women of Bedford Co. have an opportunity to see full lines of new Printed Foulard Silks for the coming season; our advance exhibit, several weeks ago including only a few of the earliest printings.

The new patterns are at once unique and bean iful; some of the handsomest of the designs are controlled by us in this market. There are several new ground shades, and the color-combinations are rich without being in the least gaudy. These silks are from the greatest weavers and printers in America, and there are none better in the respective grades; yet for this interesting special opening sale our prices show a saving well worth consideration.

A psculiarity of our Silk Department is that no old stock is over shown here at any price; and it it handly wise to buy leat year's patterns even at a "bargain." The savings we of fer in Silks are due to our great buying power.
